ARCHITECT - Caddis

Caddis Collaborative is an architecture, urban design, and planning firm based in beautiful Boulder, Colorado, and working throughout the United States and the world. They are leaders in sustainable design, zero net energy buildings, and livable communities.

Bryan Bowen has lived in CoHousing for over 15 years and has designed over 20 communities.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT - Studio Campo

Studio Campo practices imaginative, context-driven design. The firm brings resonant experiences of the natural world to life, through landscape architecture, plantsmanship, and land planning.

Studio Campo explores the potential of landscapes to enrich human experience. The studio is centered in the belief that thriving ecosystems benefit our imagination as much as the species they support. The firm takes a research-driven approach; biodiversity and ecological stewardship are cornerstones of the firm's practice.

Studio Campo is a woman-owned business based in Oregon's Willamette Valley and Denver, Colorado. We are certified as a M/WBE, SBE, EBE, and DBE in landscape architecture and urban planning.

PROJECT ADVISOR - Wonderland Hill Development Co

Wonderland Hill Development Company is rooted in community focused living.

"We are proud of our rich history of working towards exemplifying what our founder, Jim Leach, calls "sustainability through community." We have built cohousing communities, near net-zero solar homes, and mixed-use developments. As the leader in green construction, and as an organization with a pioneering spirit that welcomes alternative ideas, we believe that our efforts will benefit future generations for years to come."

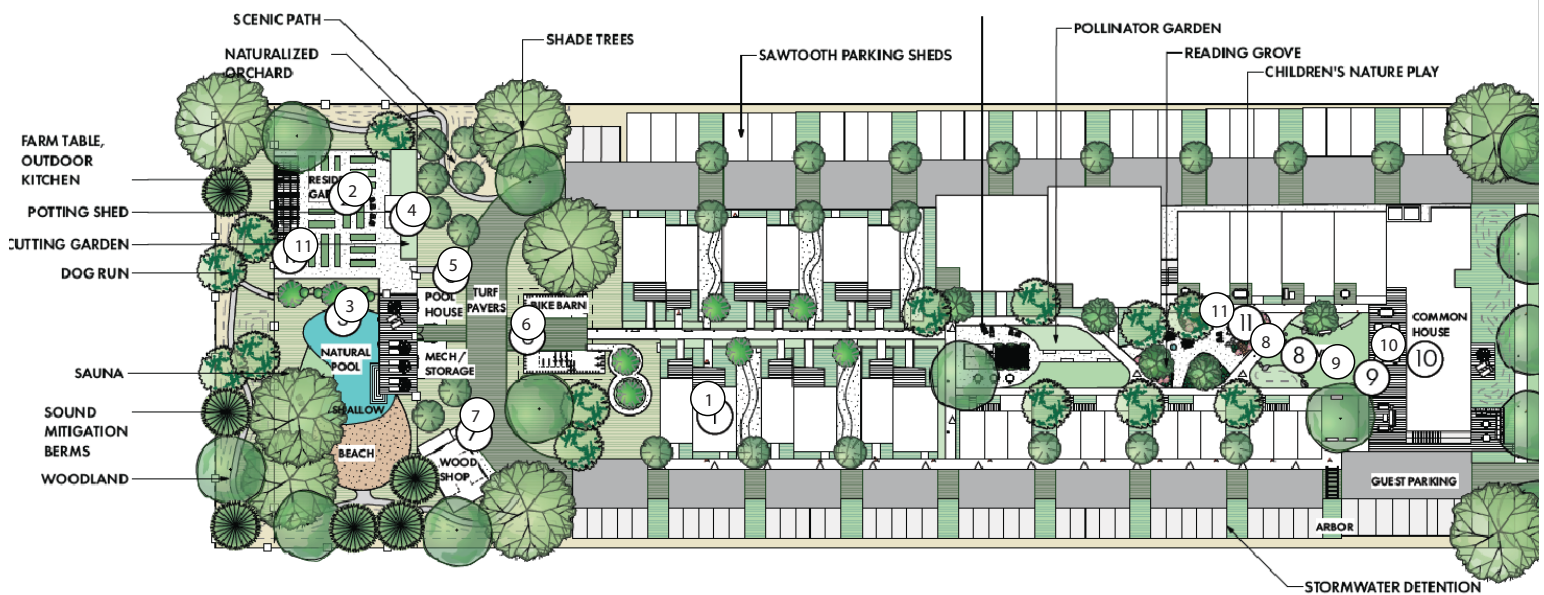

Jim Leach
